

Pipeline Programming Model

Subscribers report status or results back to a calling application. Applications integrated through REST can return only one status...

Pipeline Programming Model

...while applications integrated through web sockets can return multiple statuses at different stages in the pipeline.

